

A close-up photograph of a lush, green basil plant. The leaves are vibrant green, serrated, and have a glossy texture. Small, pale yellow flowers are visible at the tips of the stems. The background is slightly blurred, showing more of the same plants and some hints of other colors like purple and red.

Job 06:05 Doth the wild ass bray when he hath grass? or loweth the ox over his fodder?