

A close-up photograph of a small waterfall. Water is cascading over dark, mossy rocks into a pool of water. The water is clear and bright, contrasting with the dark, greenish-brown rocks. A single, dried, brown leaf lies on a rock in the foreground. The background shows more rocks and water, slightly out of focus.

Zephaniah 01:16 A day of the trumpet and alarm against the fenced cities, and against the high towers.