

A close-up photograph of a vibrant yellow rose with many layers of petals, set against a dark, blurred background. The rose is the central focus, with its petals showing subtle gradients of yellow and some darker shadows. Overlaid on the upper portion of the rose is white text in a serif font, which reads: "Psalms 78:39 For he remembered that they were but flesh; a wind that passeth away, and cometh not again." The text is arranged in five lines, with the first line being the longest and the last line being the shortest.

Psalms 78:39 For he remembered that they were but flesh; a wind that passeth away, and cometh not again.