

Ezekiel 10:02 And he spake unto the man clothed with linen, and said, Go in between the wheels, even under the cherub, and fill thine hand with coals of fire from between the cherubims, and scatter them over the city. And he went in in my sight.

A charred, dark brown branch lies horizontally across the lower half of the image on a grey concrete surface. The branch is heavily charred, with a dark, almost black, brittle-looking exterior and a lighter, fibrous interior exposed at several points. The background is a plain, textured grey concrete.
