

A photograph of several butterflies resting on smooth, light-colored rocks. Three bright orange butterflies with dark markings on their wings are perched on the top of a rock. Below them, a dark butterfly with white spots is also on the rock. The background shows more rocks and some green foliage.

Genesis 48:16 The Angel which redeemed me from all evil, bless the lads; and let my name be named on them, and the name of my fathers Abraham and Isaac; and let them grow into a multitude in the midst of the earth.