

A close-up photograph of two vibrant orange butterflies resting on a light-colored, textured rock surface. The butterfly in the foreground is positioned lower and to the left, with its wings spread, showing a rich orange hue with darker veins. The second butterfly is positioned higher and to the right, also with its wings spread. The background is softly blurred, showing green foliage. The text is overlaid in white, bold, sans-serif font across the center of the image.

Ezekiel 42:05 Now the upper chambers were shorter: for the galleries were higher than these, than the lower, and than the middlemost of the building.