

A photograph of a waterfall cascading over large, layered rocks. The water is clear and flows in several streams down the face of the rocks. The rocks are brown and tan with some green moss or algae. The background shows more rocks and water, suggesting a natural setting.

Romans 03:13 Their throat is an open sepulchre; with their tongues they have used deceit; the poison of asps is under their lips: