

A close-up photograph of golden wheat stalks with green weeds in the background. The wheat stalks are in sharp focus, showing their intricate structure and long awns. The background is filled with a dense field of similar wheat and some green weeds, creating a textured and layered appearance. The lighting is bright, highlighting the golden color of the wheat and the vibrant green of the weeds.

Job 34:06 Should I lie against my right? my wound is incurable
without transgression.
