

A close-up photograph of a large yellow flower, possibly a daisy or gerbera, with many bright yellow petals radiating from a central brownish-yellow core. In the bottom left corner, the petals of a pink flower are partially visible, overlapping the yellow one. The background is dark and out of focus.

Psalm 120:7 I am for peace: but when I speak, they are for war.